Politeness.
Collector—No money again? I'm tired of waiting. Debtor (to his maid)—Jane, give this gentleman a chair.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Self Belief the Key to Success.
Do you still believe in yourself? If so, you cannot become a failure. You can at worst only have failed to learn as yet the science of success, of which self respect is the key. In the great gamble of life we can afford to lose everything but our self respect. Money lost is little lost; friends lost, much lost, but self respect lost, and all is lost. Self belief is the husband of self respect, just as self respect is the mother of self reliance. Believe in yourself and you will win through, for self belief is the mainspring of human activity and the principal source of human improvement. It inspires you to do things. It teaches you to try again. The man who retains his belief in himself will never give up trying, and success is the reward of persistent effort. Self reliance will pull us through many a struggle from which the coward flees in vain and in which the weak succumb. The ability to "get up again" is the reward of the self reliant.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Rules For Success at Golf.
Writing in the American Magazine, Jerome D. Travers calls Harry Vardon the greatest golf player he ever met and says the bulk of his success might be set down to these few simple rules:
Control of temper.
Refusing to worry over any bad lie or any hard luck.
Playing easily within himself and never pressing.
Playing always for the hole, even when 200 yards away.
Studying his game and practicing at every opportunity.
Making a point, even in practice, to follow all simple rules, such as keeping one's head still, looking at the ball, etc.
Keeping the body under control until perfect timing is developed.
Using an easy, natural upright swing that stays as long as possible in line with the intended flight of the ball.

Details.
Details are something beneath the notice of the majority. It requires a rare sort of mind to accord to them the proper importance.
It is necessary for every great artist to understand details in order that he may know when they should be ignored. Gulliver discovered this interesting fact when he woke up one morning. The perfection of any masterpiece depends upon the strategic elimination of its details.
Those who see only those things which lie between the little and the great see neither of these. It requires the same capacity of imagination to master details that it does to master immensities. To see big one must also be able to see little.
Controlling events means controlling details.
Nothing succeeds like details.—Life.

Heathen Hospitality.
African jungle people are not very particular concerning their food. One of our missionary women was down with an attack of fever some time ago. This was a source of sorrow to these poor, unlearned yet sympathetic natives, who in their own way are really compassionate and want to help. One of these "bush mammals" tried to express her sorrow because the "white mammy missionary" was so ill. After a time she left the station with a bright idea in her head and started for the jungle. A little later she returned with a large tropical leaf from one of the trees. Upon it were several big, crawling green worms, which she had caught and brought to the sick missionary. She thought they would be nice and tender for her to eat during her illness.—Christian Herald.

Starting the Day Wrong.
There was a gloom on the face of the New England farmer.
"What's the matter, Elijah?" asked his nearest neighbor. "Flapjacks given out over to your house?"
"Worse'n that," said Elijah. "You know, 'twasn't apple year, and wife says we can't have any more apple pie for breakfast."
"Can't you make out if you have apple pie noon and night?"
"I can, because I've got to," said Elijah. "But, I tell you, it upsets me starting in the day wrong like that."—New York Post.

Gentle Consideration.
The sayings of little folk frequently are sage as well as suggestive. A literary magazine recalls the naive remark of "Penini" Browning, son of the famous poet, when, during some childish illness, his devoted mother bent anxiously above his bed.
"Think it's a little boy in the street," the child murmured, desiring to be of comfort, "and you won't feel so bad."

Land of the World.
The area of the earth is 100,712,000 square miles, of which only about 53,000,000 are land. The average altitude of all the land above sea level is 2,411 feet; hence if all the land above sea level—25,000,000 cubic miles—was spread uniformly over the globe it would form a shell 660 feet thick.

Ultimately.
"Then you didn't ask for her hand?"
"No; when I went to interview her father he was busy with the furnace. He said to come down, and after watching his struggles for half an hour I didn't want to get married."—Chicago News.

Founders of Rome.
There were three "founders of Rome," the first, Romulus, B. C. 752; the second, Camillus, who saved the city from the Gauls, B. C. 395; the third, Calus Marius, who saved the city from the Teutones and Cimbrs, B. C. 101.

When They Mined the Nile.
In the Sudan campaign as the British troops approached Omdurman the Khalifa Abdullah conceived the idea of upsetting the British gunboat expedition by mining the Nile. A former officer of the Egyptian army whom he had long held prisoner was ordered by the Khalifa to construct a couple of mines, which were produced forthwith. They were primitive in form, consisting, in fact, of two old iron boilers stuffed with gunpowder, in which was concealed a pistol with a string attached to the trigger whereby the charge could be exploded. The first mine was laid by the Ismailia, worked by a native crew, and demonstrated its efficiency by exploding on the instant, sinking the Ismailia and killing the crew, including the mine constructor.

The Khalifa was delighted, not at the accident, but at the testimony to the power of the invention, and immediately ordered the emir in charge of his arsenal to lay the second mine. The mine, profiting by experience, insured his safety by putting the Nile into the boiler before he put the boiler into the Nile. He then carried out the immersion successfully, to the joy of Abdullah, who loaded him with "presents and praises."—Manchester Guardian.

The Faults of Others.
Charity does not require of us that we should not see the faults of others, but that we should avoid all needless and voluntary observing of them and that we should not be blind to their good qualities when we are so sharp sighted in their bad ones. What if others are weak, is that a reason for your no longer keeping any measure with them? You that complain of their troubling you, do you give nobody any trouble? You that are so shocked at the faults you see—if all to whom you have been troublesome should return the trouble they have had with you, you would be oppressed with the weight, and, besides, even supposing that men had nothing to reproach you with, yet consider, further, what obligations you are under from God to show forbearance toward others for which you know you have such abundant occasion at his hands.—Fenelon.

Tennessee's Marbles.
Although marble is the most important product of Knoxville, Tenn., there being thirty-five mills and quarries in the city district, producing values which have reached $3,000,000 a year, the great variety and value of Tennessee's marble deposits were unknown until 1853. Between that year and 1857 the two large additions of the capital at Washington, wherein the United States senate and the house of representatives sit, were built of this marble.

A Herculean Task.
The bridegroom was intensely serious.
"My dear," he said to his little wife (they are always little), "you have a hard task before you. Now that we are wed, you will have to prove to my four sisters that you are worthy of me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Marriage in Java.
In Java when a man marries he goes to his wife's house, where the women sit in council upon all matters of importance and dictate the affairs of the home.

Child's Day in Belgium.
St. Nicholas day, which is Dec. 6, is the day on which the Belgian child expects a new toy. It is the Belgian child's Christmas.

Charity.
Charity does not demand of us that we should never see the faults of others, but she does ask us to avoid discovering them when there is no need.

Children have more need of models than of critics.—Joubert.
